2 次の英文を読んで、下の問 1～10 に答えなさい。ただし 3 箇所ある 12 には同じものが入る。

Geocaching is a game played worldwide—even 11 it only began in 2000! Geo is from the word geography, and caching (pronounced “cashing”) means hiding a container with “treasure” inside. The purpose of geocaching is to use GPS technology to find a hidden cache—some people call it a high-tech treasure-hunting game. Technophiles love it because you need technology. Hikers love it because you may have to walk a long way. And looking 12 treasure is fun, so it's also great for children.

It isn't difficult to become a geocacher. First, buy a small handheld GPS device. Next, search online for a geocaching website and choose a cache to look 12 . Some caches are in beautiful locations, 13 river valleys, mountains, or beaches. For each cache, websites list coordinates—numbers that give an exact geographical position (for example, 48°51.29'N, 02°17.40'E is the Eiffel Tower in Paris). Input the coordinates for your cache 14 your GPS device, and <sup>(5)</sup>you're ready to go!

Your GPS device will identify the exact location of your cache. That's the 16 part. The hard part comes after you get to the location—finding the cache! Some caches are hidden under stones, in trees, or even in water. And what will you find in your cache? If you're looking 12 gold or diamonds, you'll be very 17 . Most caches contain inexpensive things like books, toys, coins, or DVDs. There's also a logbook and pencil for you to record the date you found the cache and make comments. The real prize is the pleasure of saying, “I found it!”

Geocaching etiquette allows you to take whatever you want from the cache, but you must 18 it with something of the same or higher value. Don't forget to bring some treasure for the next geocacher!
